To the Honorable Judge of Probate for the County of Penobscot.
The undersigned, administratrix of the estate of David Gatchell, late of Old Town, in said County, deceased, respectfully represents that the goods and chattels, rights and credits of said deceased are not sufficient to pay his just debts and charges of administration.
Wherefore your petitioner prays your Honor to grant her a license to sell at public or private sale, and convey a certain parcel of land situate in said Old Town, bounded north by the Alvin Ross lot, so called, east by the old County road, south by Water Alley, and west by new County road, of the real estate of the deceased, (including the reversion of the widow's dower therein), to satisfy said debts, expenses of sale, and charges of administration.
Said real estate is the same described in a deed recorded in the Registry of Deeds of said County, Vol. 327, page 142.
HARRIET J. GATCHELL.

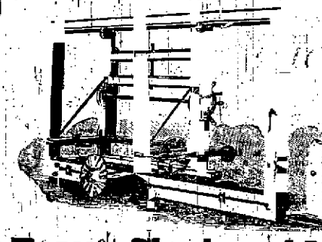
DOCKEY & SEGEE,
MANUFACTURERS OF THE



Davis Patent Clapboard Machine.
The Davis Patent does away with Turning Works or Sapper, as it is provided with three sets of collars and sapping knives on the saw arbor, and saps the bolt at the same time it is sawing. The arbor extends across the Machine, and the saw is outside of the frame, which prevents the saw dust from clogging the gearing, and, in changing saws, you simply take the nut off end of arbor, and remove collars and saw without disturbing arbor.
The saw runs 2200 revolutions per minute, and the Machine will cut from 5 to 6 M. per day; an average of 500 per day over the old style machine.

STATE NEWS.

Aroostook.

A man named Poore, while at work in Lowe's steam mill, Houlton, last Friday, had his hand badly lacerated by its coming in contact with a circular saw. A physician dressed the hand, and will probably save his fingers.

The brick block, in Houlton, is nearing completion, and will probably be ready for occupancy by the middle or latter part of this month.

The New Brunswick Railway Company are about to furnish that portion of the railway line between Grand Falls and Caribou with new steel rails. The road is now being ballasted and undergoing other improvements.

Rev. Carroll E. Harding, of Ashland, and Miss Alice Miriam Philbrick, of Portland, were married at ten o'clock Wednesday forenoon, in St. Luke's Cathedral by Rev. Canon Sills. There was a large attendance of the friends of the contracting parties. The bride was dressed in seal brown traveling costume. The Misses Philbrick, sisters of the bride, were the bridesmaids and Mr. Harding, of Spencer, Mass., the groom's brother groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. Harding left for their home in Ashland on the noon train. The bride was the recipient of many elegant presents.

Yerxa arrested by Deputy Marshal Marble, at Hodgdon, is the man who, last July, was waited upon by Deputy United States Marshal Marble who had a warrant for his arrest for smuggling across the St. John river from New Brunswick, and who made his escape by pretending he was going down into the field to milk the kenows." After waiting some time for him the deputy marshal inquired of his wife if she knew what was keeping her husband, when she informed him that perhaps he could not get back, as the bull might have sprung aleap, for he had to go into New Brunswick to milk, as the cows were at pasture there, and indawned upon Uncle Sam's official that he had allowed the man to slip through his hands. This time Yerxa didn't play it, and will milk his kenows" somewhere else.

Tuesday evening, Union Hall, Ferry Village was filled to overflowing with ladies and gentlemen, to listen to remarks by the ladies and to take measures for a petition to the County Commissioners for a ferry landing on the Portland side.

Wednesday noon, Mr. Ladrigan, of Portland, while attaching a gas pipe with the main pipe, was overcome with the gas and fell insensible into the ditch. A fellow workman found him, and he was taken out. He did not recover, and was taken home, and it was some time before he regained consciousness.

The Westbrook Manufacturing Company has petitioned the County Commissioners for abatement of its taxes for the years 1884 and 1885. A hearing has been assigned for November 18, when Hon. W. L. Putnam will appear for the company, and Hon. B. D. Verrill for the town.

Chas. N. Davis, of Portland, who was killed in the Maine Central yard, Sunday morning, was buried Tuesday, and at ten o'clock in the evening Mrs. Davis, who had attended the funeral in the afternoon, gave way under the shock of her husband's terrible death and died suddenly of heart disease. She was thirty-six years of age and leaves a daughter.

A family in Portland is the possessor of a French clock, almost the only thing saved from the house of one of our oldest citizens in the great fire of 1866, which is a very accurate time keeper. The family being about to leave home recently for two or three weeks, this clock was wound up the morning of leaving, and on their return, after seventeen and a half days' absence, was still running and in perfect time. This clock is over fifty years old, and is what is called a fourteen day clock.

Monday morning, as the team of Mr. Frank McKenney, of Scarboro, was entering the woods near his steam saw mill, the workmen were engaged in falling a tree. As the team approached the wind suddenly hurled the tree directly upon the horses, killing one instantly and injuring the other so badly that the owner was compelled to have him killed. The driver escaped by leaping from his sleigh which was crushed to atoms. Later in the day a large pine tree, which had been standing for many years as a landmark between the towns of Scarboro and Buxton at South Buxton (Scarboro Center), was blown down, and falling across the barn of Mr. C. J. Milliken, completely demolished it.

They have a church on Monument street, Portland, where they assemble for worship, presided over by a colored brother, who has taken the place of the Rev. Mr. Muldevers, who so long ministered to the flock there. The boys (young men) have given great annoyance to these people by disturbing in various ways the meetings. Last Sunday evening cayenne pepper was thrown on the stove and a general coughing and sneezing match resulted. The minister was equal to the emergency. He locked the doors, sent for the police, and had seven young men arrested for disturbing the meeting. They were tried in the Municipal Court, each found guilty and fined $5 and costs. The Judge admonished the offenders if they or any one else were found guilty of like offence he should send them to jail.

Franklin.

Last Saturday, the work of placing in the tower of the new court house the handsome town clock, just purchased by the Women's Ladies of Farmington, was completed, and it was set to running. The four dials, which are visible in nearly every section of the village, are black ground, and the hours are denoted by numerals in gilt. The bell, also new, is a fine toned one and the hours are distinctly heard throughout the village.

Kennebec.

It is said that Wm. Percival, the retiring postmaster at Weeks' Mills, China, represents the longest continued service of any postmaster in the United States, his service covering a term of more than forty-three years.

Mr. Stanley H. Holmes, son of Wm. H. Holmes, of Augusta, who is attending Colby University, was severely burned about the eyes and his hair was singed, by the bursting of an alcohol lamp, Tuesday, the blazing fluid striking him in the face.

Knox.

Sheriff Irish has received Daniel Wilkinson's death warrant from the Governor, and November 20th, the condemned man will expiate his crime on the gallows. The execution will take place between the hours of 11 and 12. The rope has been ordered of a Boston firm. The sheriff has received applications from various county officials through the State for an opportunity to assist in the ghastly ceremony. Passes will be issued to the twelve witnesses required by the statutes, and no more.

Lincoln.

A new enterprise has been started in East Jefferson, according to the News. Parties there have a contract and are now collecting 100,000 hardy evergreen terms, found in the forests for a firm in Boston, to be used in decorating churches and other public buildings.

Frederick Chase, of Damariscotta Mills, now deceased, was born in Nobleboro in 1833. He was the sixteenth child of a family of twenty children by the same father and mother. Eighteen of these children lived to maturity, seventeen married, and sixteen had families. His parents both died in their 85th year. He was the uncle of 119 living nephews and nieces, and a sister held the relation of aunt to 127 nephews and nieces at her death, embracing the fifth generation only. Before his death he was uncle to 337 nephews and nieces, and now over 400 descendants live of the sixteen children who had families.

Penobscot.

The work on the new mills at Bluehill's Mills is progressing well. They are up and covered, and the "bluehill" is nearly ready for setting. The engine room is being constructed. Two forty-horse power boilers and a fifty-horse power engine will carry the machinery, which appears to be ample power. Mr. Greeley will employ several men, and as the location is one of the best in the part of the State for a mill, a vast quantity of lumber will be sawed there.

There has been considerable said lately of the water power in Monson and other places in the county. Willimantic has one of the very best water powers in the county, which is on the Wilson river half a mile north of the Williams mill, at the Tobey Falls, so called. A ledge makes across the stream, forming a natural dam. The ledge is of limestone formation and below the falls are many natural curiosities caused by the action of the water and small rocks. They have worn holes into the ledge varying in size from three inches across and six inches deep to openings holding seven hogsheads, all being perfectly smooth and round.

Ex-Surveyor-General Clarence Pullen, formerly of Foxcroft, who held office in New Mexico for a year, tucking a mouth, and who has just closed up his accounts with the government, has left the office which he held in excellent condition for Mr. Julian, his successor. During the coming session of Congress he may be of great service, and he probably will, in helping to frame legislation intended to unravel some of the complicated land questions in that territory. The Interior Department has already been benefitted by reports made by Mr. Pullen during his brief term.

Somerset.

Herbert W. Simmons, of Canaan, went into his orchard with a razor last week, and cut his throat. He was followed by his wife, who suspicious that his purpose was to make away with himself. The fatal act was performed before her eyes. Young Simmons returned to a sound mind after inflicting the wound and most affectingly and emphatically expressed regret for his rashness. He died in a few hours.

When you are upon lively and smart towns, with a company of friends, you want to mention Noyes' Boston Store. We have a large steam mill running until nine o'clock every night, and a shoe factory that employs four hundred and fifty hands which is running on full time, a sash, door and blind manufactories, a scythe manufactory, a lumber, axe, oil cloth and stove polish manufactory, a machine shop and foundry, pulp mill and saw mill and also a skating rink. They are building forty houses this year, last year they built one hundred.

Ephraim Lawrence, a farmer residing near Madison Centre, has taken a great deal of pride the past season in growing a fine pair of calves. By the last of September they had become lusty fellows and were allowed the liberty of the fields in order to hasten forward a more vigorous growth. About this time one of them became frightened by a dog and took to the woods. Mr. Lawrence, not being able to find and capture him alone, called on his neighbors for help. The calf has been traced into a wild growth of wood and to the south of Hayden lake and often seen, but objects to being captured. As many as forty men and boys have been after him at one time. He leaps fences and bounds over other obstacles as lightly as the wildest deer and his owner is puzzled to know how to effect his capture.

Saturday afternoon, Mr. Matthews, of Lowell, Mass., one of the owners of the Maine State quarries, and Mr. Mitchell, a railroad contractor from Belfast arrived here having passed over the road of the proposed road from here to Moosehead Lake. They report this route a very easy one to construct. Railroad men are very enthusiastic over the project. Two surveying parties will go at once, one starting here and the other at Greenville. The latter town has pledged $2,000 toward the road and it is expected that private subscriptions in the town will amount to as much more. A railroad meeting at the Athens Town House is called for Tuesday, November 10th, at 1 o'clock P. M., says the Skowhegan Porter.

Waldo.

Quite a number of accidents occurred in Monroe last week. As Mr. Hale Thurlough was returning from Prospect, this side of Frankfort, his buggy was overturned by coming in contact with a stone in the road, throwing him out, and severely injuring him. Also his wife's head and back were very much bruised, and he was also badly cut about the face and head. Mr. Thurlough was insensible to his suffering for an hour. He is doing well. Horace Tuttle had his hand badly injured while working in the thrashing machine of Mr. John Twombly. Mrs. Eloisa Gilmore, a lady of eighty-four years, stumbled over a rug while crossing a floor and sprained her ankle.

A party of gentlemen interested in forming a local water company, visited Mirror Pond in Knox, recently, and last week they employed civil engineer H. P. Barrow to survey the grade from the pond to the custom house in Belfast. The distance is nine miles, and the elevation 261½ feet. From the pond to the highest point of land on Wilson's Hill is 161 feet, and from that point to the walk in front of the custom house is 122½ feet. The pond is about 400 rods long and 120 wide, and consequently contains about 100 acres. Its shores and bottom are rocky and there is little or no vegetable growth in the pond. The shores are quite precipitous and the water deep, and the pond is fed wholly by springs. The plan proposed is to form a stock company and bring water in pipes from this pond to a reservoir at the highest point of land within city limits, which is on the lot of Mrs. Poor's on Lincolnville avenue. From this reservoir water could be distributed throughout the city, the full from that point to the wharves being over 200 feet.—Belfast Journal.

Washington.

Considerable disturbance was prevalent at Forest City, on Saturday last. The few facts that can at present be gleaned concerning the affair, and to the effect that Spinol flowed pretty freely, and as the result of a quarrel, the local authorities arrested one man and locked him up. A large number of his associates attempted to liberate him and trouble ensued. The local authorities found themselves unable to control the mob and were compelled to telegraph to Sheriff Balkham, at Milltown, who went through on Sunday with assistants and quieted the matters, after making a number of arrests.

York.

Eleven hogs belonging to Ira C. Doe, James Sands, and Mrs. John W. Owen, of Saco, were inspected on Tuesday afternoon and found to be sick with hog cholera. They were condemned and killed.

John Adams, an August fisherman, caught a large codfish, Friday, with a good sized gray cod inside of him. The bird was all whole with feathers, legs, etc., when taken from the fish's stomach.

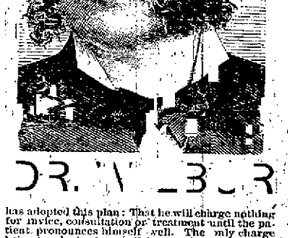
Knowing that the unfortunate have been imposed upon by unprincipled pretenders, who charge he vily in advance,



DR. WILBUR

TESTIMONIALS.

A Years Sick Cured in a Few Months.
Milltown, New Brunswick, Oct. 20th, 1885.
I wish to add my testimonial to the many others you have from this vicinity. I was sick for four years, and during that time employed all the Doctors of Milltown, Calais, and St. Stephens, and took a number of patent medicines but they did me no good. I had backache and a TERRIBLE bearing down and could not work, and had not been able to attend church in two years until I took your medicines, and I am happy to state that I am a new woman. I feel as young as I did when I was 16 years old, and all accomplished by your medicines and skill.
Your grateful patient,
MRS. WILSON BAXTER.

A Tape Worm 34 Feet Long Removed
St. Stephen, N.B., Oct. 15.
I have been sick for two years, during which time I was attended by five different doctors, and suffered untold agony; lost a great deal of flesh; many thought I was suffering from consumption, but I had a tape worm. After all other means failed I called on Dr. Wilbur, who removed me the monster, head and all complete, seven hours after taking the first dose of medicine. It measured 34 feet in length. I now have a good appetite, am gaining flesh and feel like a new man.
CHAS. EARLE.

Cross Eyed 13 Years. Dr. Wilbur Made Them Straight in Three Minutes.
Calais, Oct. 8th, 1885.
My daughter Mabel has been terribly cross-eyed for 13 years. Having learned of Dr. Wilbur's success in cases of a like nature, determined to have him operate on her eyes. I took her to see him at the American House, and in three minutes he had made them perfectly sure, with little or no pain.
CAPT. D. COGSWELL.

C. A. BOUTELLE, Editor.

All business letters should be addressed to Boutelle & Burr, and communications intended for publication should be addressed: "Editor of Whig and Courier."

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1885.

A New York friend of the President, Mr. Farnsworth, it is said, will succeed Marshal McMichael.

General McClellan's family are well provided for, as he has been in receipt of about $60,000 a year for several years.

A Jersey City Democratic official has been caught altering election returns. He should be given a severe dose of "Jersey" justice.

As now constituted the Republican party is practically without a representative on the Civil Service Commission. That is non-partisan reform!

Tammany made a clean sweep in New York Tuesday. Let us see, how long has it been since certain Democratic organs were denouncing the Tammany leaders as traitors?

The New York Evening Post thinks Assistant Secretary Coon's letter of resignation was very "impudent." Doubtless it was from a Mugwump point of view as it contained considerable truth.

Aquilla Jones, the Indianapolis postmaster, telegraphs his congratulations to Gov. Hill. If Jones was a Republican and had telegraphed his congratulations to a Republican it would settle his fate at once.

The growth of Minnesota in population, as shown by the State census, has made necessary a rearrangement of the Legislative districts and an extra session of the Legislature will probably be called for that purpose.

The great joy expressed by the Democrats over saving the President's own State and Virginia, although the latter was accomplished by the suppression of Republican votes, show that they were terribly frightened.

The boast of the New York Mugwumps that they were able to do as they pleased with elections in that State had no more foundation in fact than the majority of Mugwump statements. The Mugwump bird should fly lower in the future.

The New York Herald advises Gov. Hill not to let his friends speak their minds too freely about the independent voters, as "they are not dead, and there will be another election in 1888." How Hill will smile when he reads that paragraph.

The Boston Globe and Post which made themselves ridiculous before the election by positively predicting the defeat of Gov. Robinson are now congratulating themselves that the Republican plurality was no larger. Well, 18,000 or 20,000 will do pretty well for an off year.

That Democratic economist, First Comptroller Durham, in his first report recommends an increased force and higher salaries. It makes a great difference to the "reformers" now in Washington whether the salaries are drawn by Republicans or Democrats as regards the necessity for any increase.

The New York World says that the "new Mayor of Buffalo was elected on an out and out Higgins platform." Higgins is the man, it will be remembered, whose appointment and retention in the Treasury Department has been denounced as an outrage by the Maryland Civil Service Reform Association.

The Election.

The election of Tuesday was the first in Philadelphia under the Democratic Administration which professes civil service reform, says the Philadelphia Press, and the Democratic employes in the federal offices were absent from their posts through the day engaged in electioneering. This was what was expected, but not what was promised. It is Democratic politics but not reform.

Senator Stanford has given orders to deed in trust his three immense ranches, known as Vina, Gridley and Palo Alta, for endowment of a university and schools about to be erected at Palo Alta, California. The three ranches comprise 35,000 acres, and together represent a value of three and a half millions. It is Senator Stanford's intention to make this institution the best in the country or Europe, and the ablest professors will be secured, both at home and abroad.

It is hardly necessary, when we happen to refer to a member of the Cabinet or other person of importance, that little Mr. Bass should pop up like a jack-in-the-box as though some one had spoken to him. Our paragraph in regard to the demoralization of the railway mail service, referred to Postmaster-General Vilas at Washington and not to any of the seven-by-nine Democratic politicians in Maine who fancy that they are carrying the country around on their shoulders. That particular paragraph was based upon the fact that several subscribers have recently written that they should be obliged to discontinue, solely because of their inability to obtain the paper with any regularity through the mails. We are constantly receiving complaints, and our exchanges voice the general discontent in this regard.

President Cleveland walked alone to the polling place in the First district of the Ninth ward, arriving there at twenty-five minutes to eight o'clock. The first person to grasp the President's hand was exile McBride, the same harmless individual who threatened to blow up Canada and to dynamite Secretary Frelinghuysen. He presented the Chief Executive with a straight Democratic ticket, which, after carefully examining, Mr. Cleveland handed in to the ballot takers. The vote was recorded at ten minutes of eight o'clock.

The above was telegraphed to the New York Herald from Buffalo on the day of the election. The day before the Herald editorially denounced Hill as "the most politically corrupt candidate for Governor ever put up by any party in the Empire State," and said: "Every lover of good government should vote against him. Every honest man in every tenement house in the city should vote against him. Every laborer who wishes to have his rights protected should vote against him. The honor of the State, a decent administration of city affairs, an unbribable judiciary, indeed every civic right which men hold dear, demands that Hill shall be beaten at the polls on Tuesday." But one inference can be drawn from the above and that is that the President's love of his party is much greater than his love of good government, which of course puts an end to all the talk about his "splendid adherence" to reform. As the Herald itself has torn aside the mask common decency should now compel it to confess its fault.

The New York World says: At the next civil service examination it is proposed to put the following question to candidates: If the Evening Post, Times, Herald, Harper's Weekly and Brooklyn Union by opposing Gov. Hill and calling him "Chief Tweed's partner" secure for him four or five thousand more majority in the city and a twenty or thirty times larger majority in the State than Mr. Cleveland received, whom they supported and praised to the skies, what is the difference between a Mugwump and a Boomerang?

Among the congratulatory despatches which Governor Hill received were the following:

"I heartily congratulate you on your election. GROVER CLEVELAND."

"Accept my congratulations upon your complete victory. THOMAS A. HENDRICKS."

"Accept my warmest congratulations and good wishes or your successful appeal to the people of the State. HUGH McLAUGHLIN."

"My hearty congratulation and wishes for the greatest success in the future. HUBERT O. THOMPSON."

From the above it appears that the President is in perfect accord with the Democratic "bosses" and spoilsmen, the Mugwumps to the contrary notwithstanding.

The Boston Transcript says: "The statement that Carl Schurz has made an offer to purchase the Boston Post was substantially correct. The only thing incorrect about the report related to the character of the offer. Mr. Schurz has now, it now transpires, offered $10,000 cash and agreed to assume debts to the amount of $45,000. He has simply subscribed $40,000 to the stock of the company, although he has not yet paid in the money. When he does so he will hold a controlling interest in the paper, and the remaining $25,000 of the new stock—the entire capital being $75,000—will probably be made up among his friends. The present stockholders will not interpose any obstacles to Mr. Schurz's securing the property; but if he does not pay in his subscription the paper will continue in the present hands."

The Legislative situation in Ohio appears to be after this fashion: The Republicans have the Lower House by a sufficient majority to give them a majority on joint ballot of the two houses, even supposing all Democratic claimants to be seated in the Senate. In the Upper House the Republicans have seventeen and the Democrats sixteen members certainly, with four members from Cincinnati in doubt. Because of the frauds in that city an injunction has been applied for to restrain the county clerk from issuing certificates of election to the Democratic candidates. If this injunction is denied the Senate will stand: Republicans seventeen, Democrats twenty. If it is granted and the clerk respects it, the Senate will have a Republican majority of one until the honest choice of the Hamilton County voters can be determined. But the party may require the Democratic County Clerk to place himself in contempt by issuing certificates in spite of an injunction, which would give the Senate to the Democratic conspirators, though leading to unpleasant complications for the clerk.

New York Legislature.

SENATE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Republicans, | 21 |
| Democrats, | 11 |
| Republican majority, | 10 |

HOUSE.

| | |
|---|---|
| Republicans, | 77 |
| Democrats, | 51 |
| Republican majority | 26 |

From the above it will be seen that the Republicans have a majority of 36 on joint ballot, a handsome gain over 1884, when the Republican majority on joint ballot was 24.

Note Results.

[New York Tribune.]

Three things the returns from New York prove clearly. The Republican ticket was not defeated by any hostility of the Stalwart voters, with or without the "conspiracy" on which the Democrats placed much reliance. The result in Oneida, and in other localities where that vote has been felt at other times, proves this beyond a doubt.

Second, the Republican ticket was not defeated by the comparatively small number of voters who were diverted for the first time this year to the Prohibition ticket. Though it is not yet known precisely how large the Prohibition vote was, it is clear that its gain in comparison with 1884 was drawn in part from Democrats as well as from Republicans, and the difference does not suffice to account for the Democratic plurality in the State.

Third, the support of Mr. Davenport by certain journals of this city, which made especial warfare on the Republican party last year, did him harm. It drove from him a host of men who were strongly attracted to the Republican party by the nomination of Mr. Blaine, and by the policy of protection for home industry, and who, if not repelled, would doubtless have rendered great assistance to the Republican cause this year. When the journals which have particularly represented British free trade interests in this city united in a loud outcry for Mr. Davenport, they repelled from his support far more voters than it was possible for them to influence in his favor.

It is said by these journals, as an excuse for their want of influence, or rather their potent influence to harm a ticket which they try to help, that the arguments by the Tribune, by Senator Sherman, Senator Logan and Governor Foraker, against the suppression of the Republican vote at the South, drove away from the Republican ticket the Independent voters. If that were as true as it is impudently and transparently false, it would simply prove that those voters, and the newspapers which put up this plea, do not belong to the Republican party, have no business with it, and ought to go permanently where they do belong, to the party which triumphs by fraud, assassination, and defiance of the Constitution and laws of the United States. The Republican party cannot be really helped by any man who does not believe with it that this greatest of all crimes against free government, the denial of a free ballot and an honest count, is a crime which it is an urgent duty of loyal citizens to put down. The sooner men who prefer the Democratic side in that matter, and the journals which sneer at the Republican party for its convictions on that matter, go to the Democratic party and stay there, the better for the loyal party they will thus rid of their presence.

But the pretence that such voters are many is false. These papers ridiculously overrate their influence. It is one of the causes of Republican defeat that some persons were led to believe in the almost certain success of a ticket which these journals loudly favored. The result proves that their influence was a minus quantity. Added to a political party it makes that party smaller. It was not Mr. Davenport's fault, but it was his fatal misfortune, that he pleased these journals and the persons who follow them. Hereafter it will be well for the Republican party, when it wants a victory, to nominate candidates who have not the disadvantage of being ardently supported by journals that are hostile to Republican principles and convictions, and are profoundedly detested by Republican voters.

I SAVED TWO LIVES.

FROM MRS. A. B. SNOW, GREENVILLE, ME.

Two of my neighbor's children were very sick with croup. I was told that they could not live, that everything possible had been done for them and they were growing worse. I had been using Balsam of Wintergreen in my family, and knew what it was in throat troubles. I took it and went immediately to them. They could scarcely breathe when we commenced giving the Wintergreen, but in less than half an hour they were easier and before morning were out of danger. I know it saved both of their lives.

MAINE NEWS.

Visited by a Burglar.

WISCASSET, Nov. 6. The house of Granville J. Seavey, of East Boothbay, was burglarized last night. A watch and other articles were stolen. Louis Isenberg, a German, was arrested this morning here as the guilty party by Sheriff Kelley.

MASSACHUSETTS.

Hyderous Assault With a Carving Knife.

BOSTON, Nov. 6. James O'Neil, his wife Ann O'Neil, and Margaret Cannon, while drinking at the South End to-day, became engaged in a quarrel which resulted in O'Neil's seizing a carving knife and making a murderous assault on the Cannon woman. He inflicted two very serious wounds, one on the lower jaw and the other in the arm. O'Neil and wife were arrested. The Cannon woman will probably recover.

Arrested for Larceny.

Inspectors this afternoon arrested Chas. Becker for the larceny of property valued at $2,900 from John G. Beckett, No. 27 Central wharf. The property alleged to have been stolen consists of household furniture, cigars and clothing. Becker upon his arrest gave $1,000 sureties for his appearance in the Court to-morrow.

Charged with a Grave Offense.

NEW BEDFORD, Nov. 6. Edward Wilbur, of Freetown, charged with an attempted outrage on Laura Westgate, aged 8, was brought to this city to-night, having eluded the officers since September.

Arrested for Embezzlement.

BOSTON, Nov. 6. Timothy H. Gorman, 28 years old, charged with embezzlement of $3,111 from John A. Lowell & Co., engravers, by whom he had been employed, gave himself up to the officers to-day. The money was got by raising the pay rolls of the firm. Messrs. Lowell & Co. recently failed, the chief cause assigned being the defalcation of their clerk.

Asking for an Investigation.

At the regular prayer meeting of the Bowdoin Square Baptist Society to-night, Rev. Mr. Downs read letters from himself and Mrs. Annie Tabor, in which both asked for a full investigation of their conduct by the society. A meeting of the Prudential Committee was held later at which the matter was considered but the session being private the final action is not known.

THE CHINESE TROUBLES.

The Loss by this Fire will Reach $25,000.

TACOMA, W. T., Nov. 6. The loss caused by this fire at Chinatown amounts to $25,000. The burned buildings were mere shanties, but a large quantity of merchandise was consumed.

RAILROAD NEWS.

The Pooling Agreement Signed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. Trunk line representatives and others comprising the trunk line committee to-day signed the pooling agreement at Commissioner Fink's office after the agreement had been signed by the officials of the several western roads.

An Important Decision.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 6. In the United States court Judges Gresham and Woods decided that the mortgages of the Central Trust Company to E. F. Leonard and G. D. Braman, of New York, on the Toledo, Cincinnati and St. Louis Railroad, should be extended over the Frankfort and State Line and the Frankfort, Toledo and St. Louis divisions and that the whole property should be sold under this mortgage. An appeal has been taken and a supersedeas bond in the sum of $800,000, which will have the effect of continuing the road in the hands of the receiver for at least three years, or until the United States Supreme Court can pass on the case.

MARYLAND.

Killed by Escaping Gas.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 6. John Knell, with his family, consisting of a wife and three children, were found at their home on St. Mary street, to-day, all apparently dead except a son, who showed signs of life. They were affected by escaping gas. Elizabeth, aged 13, the second daughter, is dead, and Mary, the elder daughter, is in a precarious condition. Mr. Knell, his wife and boy are likely to recover, though when found the father and mother were both supposed to be dead.

NEW YORK.

Safe Blown Open.

HUDSON, Nov. 6. The safe in the office of Granger & Gregg, brewers, was blown open early this morning and $175 taken.

Horse Exhibition—Quick Work.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. There was a large attendance at the horse exhibition at Madison Square Garden. Engine Co. No. 1, of the New York fire department, gave an exhibition in hitching up. The time occupied was 21 seconds. Prescott Lawrence, of Groton, Mass., took the second prize for saddle horses not exceeding fifteen hands high, and the first prize for colts not exceeding fifteen hands. A. J. Cassatt, of Montgomery county, Pa., took the second prize for colts not exceeding fifteen hands.

A Man's Dead Body Found.

The body of a man was found last evening at Gravesend beach. Deceased was about thirty-five years old, 5 feet, 7 inches high and had black hair. He had on a brown sack coat, red flannel shirt, mixed gray pantaloons and a belt about his waist with a sheath knife in it. In his pocket was a photograph of a lady and a letter with the address of "I. Mitchell, and postmarked Brookline, Mass.

Josh Billings' Will—He Leaves $93,000.

The will of the late Henry W. Shaw, (Josh Billings), was filed in the Surrogate's office to-day. He bequeaths $1,000 each to his two daughters and his sons-in-law, and divides his books, lectures, etc., between his wife and two daughters. He leaves his wife, as long as she remains his widow, all the interest arising out of his investments and at her death it is to be divided between his two daughters. The market value of his estate is $93,000.

A Legal Decision.

Judge Reynolds, in the Brooklyn City court to-day, rendered a decision on a motion to compel the New York Stock Exchange to sell the seat or membership of Jones W. Blatchford, and devote the proceeds to the payment of his debts. The court held that a seat in the Stock Exchange forms a part of the assets of a bankrupt and may be sold to pay his debts.

Libel Suit.

Frederick Schwab, a musical critic, has begun a suit in the city court against Mlle. Nevada to recover nominal damages for alleged libellous statements. Mlle. Nevada was served with papers in the suit last night.

The Freedman's Society.

The eighteenth anniversary meeting of the Freedman's Society of the M. E. church was held to-day. The report of the board of managers showed that the society since its organization had two million members. The schools number twenty-two, presided over by 112 teachers, and have an average attendance of 4,423 pupils. The receipts during the year were $174,753 and the expenditures fell short of that sum.

ILLINOIS.

The Work of a Cyclone.

PITTSFIELD, Nov. 6. A cyclone passed through this county this afternoon, unroofing houses and barns and doing considerable other injury to property, but taking no lives as far as learned.

Judge Yates Makes an Assignment.

PEORIA, Nov. 6. Judge Yates, who attempted suicide a week ago on account of financial embarrassment, made a voluntary assignment to-day. Liabilities, $21,000; assets $2,000.

VIRGINIA.

Death of an ex-Confederate Congressman.

HARRISONBURG, Nov. 6. Hon. Robert Johnston, Judge of the County Court, died to-day, aged 69. He was for many years State Auditor before the war and was a member of the Confederate Congress.

FROM WASHINGTON.

News About the Capital.

A Mint Suspended—Yield of Mines Reduced to Nothing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6. On the recommendation of Dr. Kimball, Director of the Mint, Secretary Manning has authorized the suspension of all operations at the mint at Carson, Nevada. Since the suspension of the coinage of standard silver dollars at Carson in June, 1885, this mint has been conducted as an assay office. The deposits, however, have been insignificant during the last few months. The reason for the present action is that the yield of the mining industry once carried on at Carson is now practically reduced to nothing. The building will be left in the custody of the Superintendent and a few watchmen, but no work of any character will be carried on.

Condition of the Chippewas.

The Indian Bureau has received a report from the agent of the Leech Lake Chippewas, stating that they are in comfortable circumstances and not threatened with starving, as has been represented.

Resignations Accepted.

The resignation of J. W. Meldrum, Surveyor General of Wyoming, and Herman Van Arman, Secretary of Arizona, have been accepted.

The Garfield Statue.

Col. Thos. L. Casey, in a report to the Secretary of War, states that the circle at the intersection of First street and Maryland avenue, southwest, has been selected as the site for the statue of the late President Garfield, and that the contract for erecting and completing the pedestal, on or before July 1st, 1886, for $29,000 was made with J. Q. A. Ward, who also had the contract for modeling and casting the bronze statue.

General Sheridan's Staff.

By a general order issued late this afternoon from the headquarters of the army, Gen. Sheridan filled the vacancy upon his personal staff, created by the relief of two of his aides-de-camp pursuant to orders from the War Department. The newly appointed aids are Lieut.-Col. Kellogg, of the 5th Cavalry, and Lieut.-Col. Blunt, of the Ordnance Department. Colonels Kellogg and Blunt are widely and favorably known in and out of the army and it is said tonight in military circles that their selection by Gen. Sheridan as his personal aids is likely to give general satisfaction.

THE SMALL POX.

Excitement in Montreal Over the Mayor's Action.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. A Montreal special to the Post says: Montreal is evidently on the eve of another riot. The forcible removal of Gaynon's children to the hospital by the Mayor and sanitary officials has evoked a show of indignation from the French papers, in which the Mayor is described as a murderer and a revolutionary autocrat. Says the La Monde: "You have no heart, you have not got the right to maltreat those who have the honor of having one. Your inhuman and barbarous conduct caused the death of brave Gaynon's child. You are responsible for this death. Yesterday you triumphed over the poor and courageous Gaynon, for when you took his children and his wife and when you have thrown him into prison with one of his children, you are victorious; but your injustices, your cruelties, your barbarisms already crush you and cover you with shame and dishonor."

The La Minerve goes further and invites the populace to resist the officers. As the result the Mayor has issued warrants for the arrest of the editor of La Moule and the sub-editor of La Minerve on charge of personal and seditious libel, the latter against Mayor Beaugrand's incapacity as Mayor.

Crazed by Fright a Mother Throws Her Son from a Moving Train.

MONTREAL, Nov. 6. A woman, named Fortin, threw her ten-year-old boy off the morning train at Bonaventure to-day, because he had the small pox. Before the attention of the physician in charge of the depot could be drawn to the fact that the boy was suffering from the disease, the train was off. The loud mutterings of the passengers evidently frightened the mother, for just after leaving the yard and while the train was running at the rate of six miles an hour she took her boy to the platform of the car and threw him from the train. She has been arrested.

THE REBEL RIEL.

Report of the Minister of Justice.

OTTAWA, Nov. 6. It is stated to-day that Mr. Thompson, Minister of Justice, has made a report to the Council on Riel's case, in which he had adopted the views of Bishop Grand, in that the rebel leader should not be hanged but should be incarcerated in a lunatic asylum. This report, if concurred in by the Council, would obviate the necessity of a medical commission to investigate his mental condition.

Riel will Probably be Hung Wednesday.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. The Post's Montreal special says it is semi-officially stated that it has been decided not to appoint a commission to inquire into Riel's sanity and he will probably be executed Wednesday.

Will Resign from the Cabinet.

MONTREAL, Nov. 6. A rumor came from Ottawa this afternoon to the effect that Hon. Mr. Chapleau is preparing his resignation from the Cabinet on account of the decision arrived at yesterday in the Riel case.

PENNSYLVANIA.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union and Politics.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6. The protest of Mrs. Ellen Foster and 25 others against the action of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union in pledging the influence of the Union to a political party, has been replied to by the committee appointed for the purpose. The reply sets forth that this action does not make the Woman's Christian Temperance Union a component part of any political party; their resolution only involving sympathy in common principles and aims.

It denies that there has been any intolerance or lack of courtesy to the minority, the triumph of the majority being a fundamental right in our free institutions. It alleges that individuals and States are left free to express their own opinion on this as on the former controverted points, providing always that with freedom of opinion there be fidelity to the National union. It asserts that not a dollar has gone from the treasury for party purposes; that the work of organization has not been hindered, but that the year has been one of unprecedented success, as represented by its work, its treasury, its success in legislation and in the fraternal greetings of important Christian and philanthropic societies.

It refers to the growth of the prohibition sentiment as proof that the center has been reached; defends the Union's action as fair to the minority and asserts that the minority vote on the St. Louis resolutions came from States which pursue the same policy in their own territory with success. It shows that the protest came from five States with 35 votes. The States on the other side vote 245 yeas to 30 nays, and closes with kindly expressions toward all.

The Actor McCullough May Recover.

WM. F. Johnson, counsel for John McCullough, the actor, said this morning: I shall not be surprised if John McCullough is restored to health. I visited him yesterday and found him much improved. He was stronger and appeared to be mentally well. He recognized me and answered several questions. Dr. Engel, his physician, says he has every reason to believe that he will continue to improve. The crisis is approaching, and if he passes it safely his friends may hope for the best. He had an attack of convulsions the 15th of last month, and a recurrence is expected at the same time this month. Mr. McCullough is gaining so rapidly that he may fight it off.

LOST HIS LIFE.

An Ex-United States Officer Killed by the Cars.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 6. The State Register's special from Leon says: E. W. Haskell, Ex-United States District Attorney for Alaska, was killed at Needles, Cals., yesterday by falling from a train. He was on his way home from Alaska, having been removed from office.

KANSAS.

Not Guilty.

EMPORIA, Nov. 6. The jury in the Wallace murder case have returned a verdict of not guilty.

POLITICAL.

Held for Election Frauds.

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 6. Thomas Walraven, Thomas Butler and Thomas Kelly, comprising the election board in the second precinct of the seventh district last Tuesday, were this morning arraigned in the police court charged with adjourning before the vote had been canvassed and were held for the grand jury. William Howe, the election clerk in the second precinct of the seventh district, last Tuesday, who was arrested for making false entries, was held in $1200 for the grand jury.

A Recount Asked For.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 6. The Republicans have petitioned for a recount of the vote for Senator in this city. At present Howard, Dem., has 33 majority.

Gen. Carr Says if he is Defeated at all it will Only be by a Few Hundred Votes.

ALBANY, N. Y., Nov. 6. Gen. Carr, in an interview with the Evening Journal reporter this afternoon, said: My opinion is that the plurality of Lieutenant-Governor will ultimately be found in the hundreds, not thousands. I am not yet sure that I have been defeated. Full returns show a steady increase.

Remarkable Action of an Unknown Steamer.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6. The tug boat B. T. Haviland brought to port this afternoon four pilots and five of the crew of the pilot boat Mary and Catharine, No. 6, of New York, which was run into this morning and sunk by an unknown steamer, twenty-five miles N.N.E. of Absecom. The steamer did not stop. One man, name unknown, was lost, and the other nine were in a yawl five hours until picked up by the pilot boat James Gordon Bennett, No. 6, of New Jersey and transferred to the tug Haviland.

CANADA.

New Cantilever Bridge Across the St. Lawrence.

MONTREAL, Nov. 6. The contracts for building a cantilever bridge across the St. Lawrence river near Lachine, for the Canadian Pacific Railroad, were awarded today. The contract for the stone work and piers and four miles of approaches was awarded to Robert Reed and Sanford Fleming. The Dominion Bridge Company, a Toronto organization, was awarded the contract for the iron work. The total cost of the bridge is estimated at $1,250,000. The structure must be finished Nov. 30, 1886.

A Railroad President to be Knighted.

OTTAWA, Nov. 6. It is understood that George Stephen, President of the Canadian Pacific Railroad Co., will be knighted in consideration of the unprecedented rapidity with which the road has been constructed. An effort is being made here to bring him to the position of Finance Minister made vacant by Sir Leonard Tilley.

FOREIGN NEWS.

English Politics.

LONDON, Nov. 6. Parliament will be summoned to meet in January and will then adjourn. During the interim, if there is a large Liberal majority the present Ministry will resign and a new Ministry will be formed. If the Conservatives should have a majority in the new Parliament they will prepare a programme for the session. If the parties are equally divided the Conservatives will retain the office.

Justly Sentenced.

DUBLIN, Nov. 6. The Earl of Carnarvon, Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland, announces today that after the fullest inquiry into the details and circumstances respecting the trial and conviction of eleven men charged with conspiracy to murder Mr. E. Smith, an obnoxious landlord of Ballyna, he is unable to interfere with the sentence of the prisoners.

Bold Train Robbery.

ROME, Nov. 6. Yesterday robbers boarded a train on the railway between Naples and Beneventi, stole down the guard, secured 1,000 francs in money and safely jumped from the train while it was going at full speed.

The Pope and French Politics.

ROME, Nov. 6. The Moniteur Roma today published articles inspired by the Vatican attacking the conduct of Catholic leaders in the recent French elections. It says that before the election the Pope receiving delegates from the French Catholic party, indicated a desire not to confound the Italian with the Royalist party. The Pope is leaning toward Republicanism and has instructed the Nuncio at Paris to advise the French Catholic journals to subordinate politics to maintaining the relations between the State and the church.

Mr. Gladstone's Feeble Health.

LONDON, Nov. 6. Adverse reports are current concerning the health of Mr. Gladstone. His physician forbids him to speak for more than fifteen minutes at a time. The threatened breaking down of Gladstone's health is depressing the Liberals.

The Cholera.

PARIS, Nov. 6. Twelve cases of cholera and one death from that disease are reported to-day from the Naval Hospital at Biert.

Ending the Boycotting.

CORK, Nov. 6. Several of the cattle dealers who have been boycotting the Cork Steam Packet Company have become satisfied with the accommodation is provided by the chartered steamers and have resumed the shipment of cattle by the Packet Company. The action of these dealers threatens to break up boycotting.

PARIS, Nov. 6. Treasury bonds will be issued to-morrow for 400,000,000 francs redeemable in three years.

M. De Freycinet, Minister of Foreign Affairs, gave audience to-day to the Bulgarian Envoy. M. De Freycinet expressed his sympathy with the Bulgarians, but said he could not support them.

The Marchioness of Lansdowne has sailed for Canada on steamer Circassian.

ODDS AND ENDS.

A special from Salida, Colorado, says: Dr. J. H. Nonamaker and his wife were found dead in bed yesterday morning with bullet holes in their temples. From letters left by them it seems that both had grown discouraged over their inability to get friends to endorse a note for $400, and had agreed to commit suicide together. Wednesday night at 12 o'clock was the time agreed upon to put their resolution into effect. They retired with loaded pistols, and when the clock told the hour of midnight each fired, dying instantly. As Nonamaker was a jealous and brutal man, the general belief is that he killed his wife during a jealous fit, wrote the letter, and then committed suicide.

Not a single car of freight arrived over the Houston & Texas Central Railroad Thursday. All freight trains on this line are side tracked in consequence of the strike at Galveston. Over 100 cars of freight are now in the yards awaiting delivery to the Missouri Pacific road for Galveston.

Capt. William Hathaway, Jr., of New Bedford, Mass., formerly a very successful shipmaster and subsequently a prominent merchant of the firm of Hathaway & Luce, largely engaged in whaling, died suddenly at his residence yesterday morning, in his 86th year.

The Arctic whalers Ohio, Josephine and Abram Barker have arrived at San Francisco. They bring 1,900 barrels of oil and 18,000 pounds of whalebone.

In the match running race of 100 yards at Island Park, New York, Thursday, Allen, of Troy, won in nine and three-fifths seconds, breaking the world's record.

Thomas Pugh who recently disappeared from Youngstown and was thought to have been murdered and robbed of $6,000 returned without the money and was lodged in jail on a warrant. Reflection in his cell caused him to remember where he placed the money when drunk. On being released yesterday he recovered his treasure from an old boot hidden in a stump, one mile from his house. He has now instituted a suit against his relatives for false imprisonment.

The business failures of the country during the past week are: United States, 154; Canada, 25, compared with 200 last week.

CALIFORNIA IN THE WINTER.—THE RAYMOND & WHITCOMB EXCURSIONS.

The Pacific Coast presents many attractions for people who desire to escape the rigors and discomforts of an Eastern winter, and year by year the number of visitors to Monterey and Southern California generally, increases, very greatly. There will be a full tide of excursionists the coming season. The parties now being organized by Messrs. Raymond & Whitcomb are fast being filled. The second party will leave Boston December 10, and the others January 14 and February 11. These excursions present many special advantages to persons desiring to visit California for either a short or long period. Many of the passengers have made arrangements to pass the winter and early spring months at the magnificent Hotel del Monte, at Monterey. Some will visit the Sandwich Islands, and others will make only a short stay on the Pacific Coast, the tickets allowing the exercise of personal preferences both as to place of sojourn and time of return. Circulars giving full details with prices of the different trips, etc., may be obtained of W. Raymond, 240 Washington street, Boston.

PILES! PILES! PILES!

A SURE CURE FOUND AT LAST
NO ONE NEED SUFFER.

A sure cure for Blind, Bleeding, Itching and Ulcerated Piles has been discovered by Dr. William's (an Indian Remedy) called Dr. William's Indian Pile Ointment. A single box has cured the worst chronic cases of 25 or 30 years standing. No one need suffer five minutes after applying this wonderful soothing medicine. Lotions, instruments and electuaries do more harm than good. William's Indian Pile Ointment absorbs the tumors, allays the intense itching, (particularly at night after getting warm in bed,) acts as a poultice, gives instant relief, and is prepared only for Piles, itching of the private parts, and for nothing else.

Read what the Hon. J. M. Gulliver, of Cleveland, says about Dr. William's Indian Pile Ointment. "I have tried scores of Pile Cures, and, it affords me pleasure to say, that I have never found anything which gave such immediate and permanent relief as Dr. William's Indian Ointment." Mr. Harry Barraby, the popular yard master of the Maine Central, is confined to his house by a severe illness.

The number of vessels which passed through the draw at the rail road bridge during the month of October was 166.

The railroad companies are to put on the usual charge for the use of the Eastman Heater freight cars next Tuesday.

There was a dance in Grand Army Hall last evening which was attended by a large crowd. A good time was enjoyed by all.

For Boston & Maine Railway conductors were in the city yesterday morning on their way to Moosehead Lake for a hunting trip.

The mainmast of the barkentine Joseph Baker, which is now in port, is to be taken out by Hennessey & Angley and a new one put in.

The first sociable for the season at the Hammond Street Church occurred last evening and was greatly enjoyed by all present.

Mr. A. K. Dole, the photographer, is making the photographs of the members of the graduating class of the Brewer High School.

The City Physician will attend to the vaccination of those who present themselves at City Hall to-day at the usual hours.

Mr. I. T. Winans, who is well known as the trainer and driver of the horses of Mr. G. J. Shaw of Hartland, was in the city yesterday.

Yesterday can be added to the increasing list of very disagreeable November days. It was cloudy and slightly rainy throughout the day.

Quite a number of Bangor young ladies and gentlemen went up to Orono last evening to be present at the class tree hop, given by the Junior Class of the Maine State College.

At the temperance meeting to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock, Volney Cushing, one of the "original ten" that started the Reform Club will be present and take part in the exercises.

The estimate of some of the lumbermen is that the cut on the Kennebec for the coming season will exceed that of last by 20,000,000 feet. The increase will be mostly on Dead river.

We have received from Mr. A. W. Benson, the Maine Central ticket agent, a number of very handy memorandum books which were issued by the Chicago and North Western Railway.

Mr. John Farquhar, the roadmaster of the Bangor & Piscataquis Railroad, who has been off duty for a long time on account of a broken leg, resumed his position again the first of the month.

The schooner Julia R. Pratt, arrived at St. Andrews, N. B., on Wednesday morning, with a cargo of rails for the New Brunswick Railway. The Pratt laid it Mt. Desert during the storm of Monday.

The stage drivers say that owing to the small amount of travel on the country roads during the late rain the mud is not very deep. The are, however, expecting bad travelling before the snow comes.

The singing school at Stillwater which is instructed by Mr. C. T. Moody, of this city, will close next week. An effort is being made in that place to organize another class to be instructed by the same gentleman.

A much larger amount of lumbering is to be done this winter on the Penobscot than for several years past. Many crews have already gone into the woods and others are fast making preparations to leave for up river.

Mr. C. P. Webber, of this city, expects to finish work on his new shingle mill at Alton Tannery to-day, and commence sawing the first of the week. The mill occupies the same site as the one destroyed by fire there last spring.

The friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Wing, now of Saginaw City, will regret to learn of the death of their youngest child at that place, which occurred on the fifth instant. Mrs. Wing is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Flint, of this city.

The schooner Mark Pendleton which had been loaded with lumber by James Walker & Co., got ready for sea Thursday evening and pulled out from the dock. After so doing she grounded, breaking her rudder and receiving other slight injuries.

Mr. Nelson, the Government Inspector on the dredger, left for his home in Portland yesterday, his work here having been finished. The dredger is now taking out some large boulders near the Maine Central wharf. They also find a large amount of mud near the wharf.

The old engine house near the foot of Newbury street formerly used by the European Railway is being fitted up and will be occupied by the engines of the Maine Central, the houses on the west side not being large enough to hold all the locomotives which are kept here. The new house will be warmed thoroughly and will be in charge of Mr. Wm. G. Little.

The corn merchants of the city report trade very good at present. They are selling a large amount into the woods. Corn retails for sixty-one cents and meal for fifty-seven cents per bushel. These prices will probably hold for the present although both products are growing scarce. The new corn will come into the market very soon and then there will undoubtedly be a reduction in the prices.

The fruit merchants report their trade very dull, and are handling apples almost exclusively. They are receiving about the last grapes of the season. Good Florida oranges will soon commence to arrive. Those which have already been received are rather green, but ripe ones are expected next week. The price of this fruit will not vary much from that of last year.

Mr. Wilson Irwin, agent of the Travelers' Insurance Company, is in the city. Mr. Irwin resides in Winnipeg, Manitoba, and is agent for the company in that section.

Mr. F. S. Swett, one of the most efficient engineers on the European Branch of the Maine Central, returned yesterday morning from a month's visit to Iowa. Mr. Swett will resume his duties on the railroad next Monday.

Mr. E. H. Gerrish, of this city, shipped three very handsome five-ounce trout rods to parties in Cincinnati last evening. Mr. Gerrish has also just received an order from a sportsmen's club in California for four salmon and two trout rods. He is devoting nearly all his time at present to filling these orders for rods and it is doing but very little work on the canvas canoes.

The new steam launch which is to be built at Camden for C. A. Cushman, Esq., of Old Town, is to be placed on a lake in this town of Lee. It will be thirty-one feet long and eight and one-half feet wide and weigh three tons. The owner intends to have the launch constructed in such a manner that it can be hauled from one place to another without injury. It will be completed in the spring.

LOSS OF THE SCHOONER SYLPH. The WHIG announced Wednesday morning that the schooner Sylph, Captain Tracy, of this city, went ashore at Lincolnville beach during the heavy gale of Monday and was a total loss. The vessel was owned by Mr. Wm. Warren, of Brewer, and was uninsured. For a cargo she had 1,500 bushels of corn and seventy-five barrels of flour to D. Howe & Son, of Belfast, 100 barrels of kerosene for Thompson & Kellogg, of this city, and goods for Rice & Miller of the city. The corn was a total loss, the flour was saved in a damaged condition and the kerosene was all saved. The rest of the cargo was lost but it was all insured.

THE LEGISLATIVE REUNION. The Executive Committee of the coming Legislative reunion will be in session a part of next week, when a full programme for the event will be arranged. It is desired that all past members of the State Government send their present postoffice address to the committee. It will aid the committee greatly if town clerks or present members of the House will send a list of all past members of that body from their respective towns, giving the date of their membership and their present address. It will also aid the management if the newspaper press of the State will print these requests. More than 200 letters and telegrams endorsing the movement have been received. All communications should be addressed to Hon. Fred Atwood, Winterport, or to the Executive Committee at Augusta.

AN INJUNCTION ASKED FOR. Charlotte Thompson opened a week's engagement Monday night at the Grand Opera House, Brooklyn, with the play "Phyllis Denoir," a dramatization of Hugh Conway's "Dark Days." Joseph W. G. Carr of London, who claims that he was associated with Mr. Conway in the production of the drama "Dark Days," and that he now owns the original manuscript play, applied, by counsel, to Justice Cullen of the Supreme Court, on Monday afternoon, for an injunction restraining Miss Thompson from producing her version of it. A hearing was held and adjourned to give the defendant's counsel time to prepare answering affidavits. Miss Thompson claims that "Dark Days" was published in America and not copyrighted; that the play is her own; that she dramatized it from the novel and did not not copy it from Mr. Carr's play.

A PLEASANT OCCASION. Wednesday evening the gentlemen of the party whose pleasant trip to Moosehead Lake has recently been described, with Chandler's Band, to the number of fifty all told, surprised Capt. Wm. R. Mitchell, Portland agent of the Boston & Maine Railroad, at his residence at Woodford's, and spent the evening in a most pleasant manner, the excellent music of the band and singing by different members of the company largely contributing to the enjoyment. As expressive of their appreciation of the kindness and courtesy of Capt. Mitchell, the party left behind them an elegant silver water pitcher with salver and goblets, and a handsome gold-mounted harness. Upon arrival in town Conductor Geo. E. Whitney of the Maine Central Railroad was presented with a French clock by the party.—[Portland Press.

The Cambridge had a good freight out of this city yesterday, but owing to the stormy weather the number of passengers was small.

AMUSEMENTS.

Bishop's Minstrels and Museum Company.

A very good house, considering the weather, greeted Bishop's Minstrels and Museum Company at the Opera House last evening, when a change of programme was given, and singing from the frequent hearty applause given throughout the evening, the entertainment was an entirely satisfactory one. Special mention might consistently be made of the little artistes, Estelle and Addie, for their excellent performances in the specialties. The entertainment closed with some fine dissolving views or shadow pictures on canvass, which were unusually good. This afternoon a matinee will be given to ladies and children at reduced prices, and in the evening the closing performance will be given, with an entire change of programme.

Girard and Vokes.

This evening the Girard & Vokes celebrities will appear at Union Hall for the second time this season. Their first entertainment gave so great satisf

The Stupid Couple.

AN EPISODE OF THE ATLANTIC.

"The Stupid Couple"—at least that was what the other passengers called them during the first few days of the voyage after the ship had sailed from Queenstown. Not that they were so very stupid either, but people readily get nicknames on board a vessel, and a nickname, once acquired, is apt to stick.

John Pierrepoint and his wife had come on board the Shasta, at Queenstown, by the last tender; a few minutes before the propeller commenced to revolve slowly, and they had not yet found their stateroom, when the signal "Full speed ahead" passed from the bridge to the engine-room; and the throbbing of the great engines told all old travelers that their voyage was commenced in earnest, and that till the ship entered New York Harbor the engines would not rest for a moment from their work of driving the great ship on. The saloon of the Shasta was quite full of cabin passengers, and she had many steerage and second-cabin passengers as well. She was the largest and newest ship of the line, and was commanded by the company's commodore, Captain Hood, a general favorite, and known among old travelers to and from America as the luckiest skipper that had ever sailed the Atlantic. Perhaps it was because there were so many of these seasoned travelers, who in the ways of steamers, on board, that John Pierrepoint and his wife seemed to be particularly inexperienced in travel, and therefore deserving of being called stupid: they must certainly never have taken a long voyage before; they si owed no disposition to struggle for what some thought the best seats at table, and they accepted without a grumble the statroom assigned to them, which was one of the smallest in the ship. In fact, they were too easily satisfied. The Pierrepoints were reserved because they knew no one on board; but, this seemed to give them no concern, they being perfectly satisfied with their own society. Many of the American families and other passengers had known each other at home or had met before, either in other ships or traveling about in Europe, and were like a large party of old friends.

This journey in autumn to America was what the Pierrepoints called their wedding trip; but it was a long deferred one, for they had been married nearly six years, and had left three little children at home in careful hands. Before they were married they had really settled to go to America for their wedding trip; but just then Mr. Pierrepoint had inherited a property, and each year afterward something had happened to prevent their plan from being carried out.

The weather was splendid out in the Atlantic. The ocean had its long low roll sometimes, showing a ripple where the wind touched it tenderly, and sometimes crisped by a light breeze which generally died away at sunset, and each day the voyagers saw a red sun sink into the water right ahead. At length, one afternoon, the voyage was half over—mid-Atlantic had been reached. Pierrepoint and his wife were far aft on the poop, close to the rail, he reading and she knitting, as their custom was. She is a fair, gracious woman, with gray eyes and squirrel-colored hair, perhaps about twenty-five years of age. He is a long-limbed, well-knit fellow of thirty, deep-chested and lean, black-haired, with a crisp beard and tawny skin. He is dressed in one of his old white flannel cricketing suits, with a hole in the sunshade. People were pretty much what they liked on deck, and this was John Pierrepoint's fancy; while some of the other gentlemen, with tall hats, glorious scarfs, diamond pins, and everything else to match, endeavored by their dress to fascinate the ladies, who were sitting or walking about the deck, in all the brilliant colors of a flower-garden.

There was one passenger who attracted more attention than any other, and this was not a young lady, nor a gentleman with a diamond pin; he was simply a little boy of eight; but then he was Captain Hood's son, and every one wished to be friendly with him and to amuse him. He had made friends of all the passengers, and was quite at home on board, and now was running to and from the poop among the groups of ladies and gentlemen rolling a great colored ball of hollow India rubber.

Captain Hood's home was on the Hudson, a few miles from New York city. His elder children were girls, and little Jack was his only son. It had been an old promise that as soon as Jack was eight years of age his father was to take him on a voyage to England and back; indeed, from the time that Jack was four years old he had talked about this great treat he was to have; and in the meant me his interest in nautical matters grew large by watching the craft of all kinds passing up and down the Hudson, right in front of the windows of their house. When the time came, and Captain Hood saw he could take Jack over, his mother was very unwilling to let him go; she feared some harm might happen to him, and raised all the difficulties and objections she possibly could; but Jack and his father carried the day. The first castaway gust of the Shasta was a chance not to be missed; and the weather was very fine and settled. Mrs. Hood with her daughters came down to the wharf in New York to see the steamer off. Her last words to her husband were: "Remember, if you don't bring Jack safe home, you needn't come without him." The Captain remembered these words later. He replied: "All right, little woman; we'll be back with you for breakfast some fine morning in less than five weeks."

During the voyage to Liverpool all went well. The chief stewardess took Jack under her special care, and he slept in her cabin. While the ship was in the Mersey, Jack and his friend the stewardess went to stay at a farm in Lancashire, and only came down a day or two before the steamer sailed on her present voyage. The boy was now quite accustomed to life on board a steamer, and went where he liked all over the ship; the bridge and the steerage were the only forbidden places. He had become quite friendly with many of the sailors, and he had not the least objection to a confidential chat with some of the grimy and half-naked stokers, most of them Irishmen, who came up on deck when they could, from the depths of the stoke-hole, to get a breath of fresh air. The solemn old Scotch engineer was his particular favorite.

On this very day, when the voyage was supposed to be half over, and before the passengers came on deck to enjoy the evening sun, the conversation at dinner had turned upon the subject of persons falling overboard from a ship going fast, and the chances of saving them. Various persons at the table told their experiences of such matters; and after a little while it seemed that the passengers who were joining in the discussion had formed themselves into two parties, one of which, comprising chiefly the landsmen and younger travelers on board, seemed to hold the opinion that it was a simple enough matter to pick a person up who had fallen over in daylight and in fine weather. "If he can swim," they said, "he can keep himself up till a boat is lowered and rows to him. If he can't swim, some one who can jumps overboard, and holds him up till both are rescued, or a life-buoy is thrown to him, and that keeps him up." But they had to admit that they had never seen this done.

The other party at table, headed by some captains of ships who were passengers by the Shasta, and some of the older travelers, were of a different opinion. They said that help almost always came too late; and that no matter how quickly a boat is lowered, the person who has fallen over is left so far astern that he sinks before he can be found; that from a boat it is very difficult to see such a small object as a man's head among the hollows of the waves, and this even in fine weather and with good light. If a man is a very good swimmer and has presence of mind, he has some chance, for he can keep himself up a long time; and if a boat is sent after him he can call to it or signal it when he happens to rise on a wave at the same time that the boat rises.

One skipper told a story, which, however, did not relate to a man. He said:

"When I was homeward-bound from India last time, the first mate had a splendid large cockatoo, a great pet, and so tame that he would sit on your finger. Well, one day he flew overboard and settled down on the water astern. We had just come into the northeast trades, and were going about six knots. I threw all sails aback as soon as I could, and sent some hands in our quarter-boat after the bird. It took ten minutes or a quarter of an hour to get the boat out, and all the time I kept my eye on the bird; and when the boat was off, I went up into the mizzen rigging and watched the poor cockatoo for a long time; but the men in the boat couldn't find it; and we could not succeed in directing them to where it was. They came back without it."

Another captain said: "When I was in a steamer I always kept one boat ready for lowering, with cover off and oars and all in her; but it takes you to be very quick to pick a man up who has fallen over! Many sailors can't swim, and then of course they go to the bottom at once."

Shortly after this the passengers came on deck. They did not know that this day the thing they had been talking about was to be enacted before their eyes.

Jack Hood was rolling his great ball and rushing about after it screaming with delight, when suddenly after a strong throw it fell on the rail, and then with a bound into the sea. The child stood still with amazement for a second, and then running to where his ball had disappeared, he climbed on the rail to see what had become of it; and before any hand could reach him, he had fallen over into the waves. The terrified passengers saw him rise to the surface and stretch out his arms, while the seething foam from the ship's propeller turned him round and round in the water, and the ship rushed on, leaving him behind. The Pierrepoints were not very near the place where little Jack fell over; they were at the other side of the deck; but Mrs. Pierrepont, when she saw him climbing, laid her hand quickly on her husband's shoulder. He looked up instantly, and following her eyes to the spot saw the boy just as he fell. In one moment he was on his feet, kicked off his canvas shoes, threw his hat on the deck, and turning his face toward the bridge, where he knew some of the ship's officers were always stationed, he called out in a voice which rang like a trumpet-call over the ship, "Man overboard!" Then, with a quick run and leap, he had cleared the rail, and the broken swirling water of the ship's track had closed over him. He was on the surface again in a moment, and, taking a glance back at the ship to know his position, stretched out into a long steady stroke in the direction where he knew the child was.

Great confusion and excitement fell upon the passengers; but not upon the officers of the ship. Captain Hood was standing on the bridge talking to the second officer, when he heard the cry of "Man overboard!" He looked aft, and saw a man disappearing over the stern; then he saw in the steamer's wake two heads, one dark, and the other small and fair; and further away, floating high, the colored ball. A sailor who was cleaning some brass-work near the stern ran forward, calling out to the captain: "Your son has fallen overboard, sir, and a passenger has jumped after him."

The Captain's hand was on the engine-room telegraph, and down into the depths of the ship went the signals. The engineer and some of his subordinates were sitting about in front of the great engines, in the mixture of lamplight and dim daylight which pervades that region. Some of the men had stretched themselves out on the floor of checkered iron plates in idle time. The engines were going full speed and working well; one man was telling a story, when, to the astonishment of them all, the telegraph bell rang, and the index, which pointed to "Full speed ahead," moved across the dial to "Stand by." There was a general cry of "What's wrong?" The engineer was close to the wheel which controlled the engines, and his assistants stood by. Again the bell rang, and the index pointed to "Stop." The engines came to a stand, the revolutions of the propeller stopped, a strange quiet fell on the engine-room; and the men or all over the ship eased. They all watched the telegraph. The bell rang again, and the index moved to "Astern—slow;" and again in a minute or two, to "Half." The engineer now had time to speak: "What's wrong on deck? One of you run up and bring down word quick."

Mickey, a fireman with bare feet and bare shoulders, was scaling at the foot of the almost perpendicular iron ladder; and at the engineer's word he ran up nimbly as a monkey; but he did not go astern, and in a few minutes another man went up, who returned immediately, all breathless, and told the others what had occurred; and that he had seen the first messenger, Mickey, in the boat which had been sent off to the rescue. All who could then went up on deck to see the result. The head engineer could not quit his post. The reversing of the engines had now brought the steamer to a stand. The next signal came down, "Slow;" and the good steamer moved slowly backward on her track.

When the first alarm was given, and while the Captain, who never lost his presence of mind for a moment, was communicating with the engine-room, he made a sign to the second officer, who called out, "Man overboard! Stand by to lower away the gig!" The sailors who were on deck ran to obey this order. A boat's crew of four hands and a cockswain were at once ready. The boat was safely lowered, and the men were at their oars. Before she cast off the cockswain cried "I want a man for the bow." Mickey, the fireman waited for no orders, but taking hold of the ropes, swung himself over, and slid down into the bow of the boat, which at once rowed quickly away. Before it set off Mrs. Pierrepont ran over to the side and threw down into the boat's stern the Scotch plaid on which her husband had been lying.

Mrs. Pierrepont was quite calm; but the other passengers seemed afraid to approach her; they did not know just what to say—whether to congratulate her on her husband's daring or to condole with her upon his danger. Some of the ladies were in hysterics; all were watching with the greatest concern the course of the boat, and trying to make out the child and the swimmer among the waves far astern; for the steamer had run more than a quarter of a mile before the boat was ready to leave her.

The men in the boat rowed fiercely. The passengers could see the cockswain and the bowman standing up, trying to distinguish something where the waves lifted; but even with glasses they could see nothing of the swimmer.

A famous general, who had marched with a great army to victory, was on board; he did not know the Pierrepoints; but he came up now to Mrs. Pierrepont, and, holding his hat in his hand, said: "Madam, your brave husband has done a noble act. It is grand to see such pluck and dash. I trust you will have him back soon. Will you come up on the bridge beside the Captain, where you can have a much better outlook over the sea; and perhaps you will make use of my binocular?"

"Oh, thank you," she said. "I shall be glad to have your glass, and to go on the bridge—if the Captain allows me," she added, smiling. "But I don't think my husband is in danger; he has often been a long time in the water, and can swim well in his clothes. There is still plenty of light for the boat to find him. I only hope he may catch that dear little child in time. The boat should reach them soon."

The General led Mrs. Pierrepont up to the bridge, and said a word to the Captain. The Captain took one glass over, saying: "The boat is close to them now; I saw them less than a minute ago through my glass on the top of a wave."

"Do you see them? Are they together?" asked Mrs. Pierrepont.

"Yes," replied the Captain; "I believe they are." But his voice was now broken, and he took hold of Mrs. Pierrepont's arm. "I watched my child from zero with the glass till at last he floated so low that I could scarcely see him; and just as he seemed sinking your husband dashed across the spot where he was, and I saw by a wave of his hand towards the ship that he had caught him. He is now waiting for the boat. What a splendid swimmer he is!"

"Oh yes; he is a good swimmer. I am so glad he was near," said Mrs. Pierrepont. "I believe, Captain, he will bring back your little boy safe."

When Pierrepoint sprang over he had been so quick that he was not very far from the child; but he knew that all depended on reaching him soon, and he could only see him now and then, when the waves lifted them both at the same time, but those glimpses gave him the direction; and without minding in the least the fact that the steamer was receding from him at the rate of fifteen miles an hour, and that he was left alone in the middle of the great Atlantic with no one near him, but a little sinking child, he swam off as quickly as possible, saw the child on the side of a wave, made a dash at him, and caught him by the arm as he was sinking. Jack's fears had got the better of him; he had given up hope; but now he roused up, and with a cry caught John Pierrepoint's beard. Pierrepoint raised the child's head as far as he dared and placed his little cheek against his own, while passing underneath the boat was now alongside, and the men were rowing for life. The men in the boat rowed fiercely. The passengers could see the cockswain and the bowman standing up, trying to distinguish something where the waves lifted; but even with glasses they could see nothing of the swimmer.
